POKEBERRY GREW WHERE COCKSCOMBES WERE PLANTED

A certain East Harrison Avenue woman is sore. Early in the spring she planted what she thought were cockscombs. She lined the back yard and banked them over the back fence, and felt joyful over the thoughts of the beautiful red growth that would be the result when the plants bloomed in June. The "plants" have bloomed and they are of a species luxuriant and thick. But unhappily they are not the beautiful cockscombs of the woman's dreams, but are the "horrid pokeberry" and that is why the East Harrison Avenue woman is "sore."

A WELL-KNOWN OKLAHOMA WOMAN.

It's The Same Story Everywhere.

Enid, Okla.—"I used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for some 20 years. I was living in Liberal, Kansas. My husband said it was a wonderful medicine, because with it I could do my work and without it I could not. It strengthens the distinctive female organs and gives new tone and life. I could not have gotten along without it. Of course, I recommend it."—Mrs. CARRIE BAISROW, 411 No. Grand Ave., Enid, Okla.

Thousands upon thousands of mothers, wives and daughters in every section of this great country, who have regained health, vigor and cheerful disposition after months of misery and even despair, are the ones who truly appreciate the marvelous restorative power of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Every woman who has reason to believe that backache, headache, unnatural pains, low spirits, sleepless nights, irregularities or a catarrhal condition is caused by a derangement of the womanly functions, owes it to herself and dear ones to speedily overcome the trouble before a general breakdown causes permanent prostration.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a non-alcoholic remedy that any ailing woman can safely take because it is prepared from roots and barks with pure glycerine, containing no opiates or the most pronounced character.

It is not a secret remedy because its ingredients are printed on wrapper.

WATCH THE LITTLE THINGS.

(Edward F. Croker in World's Work.)

Fire prevention means watching the little things that cause big fires.

The fire department is, and naturally will remain for many years to come, the bulwark that stands between us and fire. Although it is asserted that improvement in building conditions is greatly reducing fire perils, the number of fires is steadily keeping step with the progress in building. The more closely settled and the more complicated city building becomes, the more opportunities for fires are created. To keep pace with this increase in the complexity of buildings, the fire department, crippled as it is by lack of authority, has been improved and built up until it represents the acme of fire-fighting development, certainly in this country, and probably in the world. When I joined the department in 1884, we were equipped with the old two-wheeled horse carts drawn by one horse, short wooden ladders, antiquated engines, and a poor water supply. Since then there have come the motor fire engine, motor wagons, water towers, electric searchlights, scaling ladders, steel ladders, and high pressure. Of all these, the motor fire engine is the one that may be said to represent the greatest gain made against the fire foe. The vital problem for the fireman is to get to the fire and put his water to work in the shortest time possible. The old engines used to make about 8 miles an hour. The new automatic engines can make 30. The time that it took eight minutes to reach in 1884 now can be reached in less than three minutes. The improvement in the rest of the equipment is a little behind this, but it has held its own with the improvements made in other mechanical fields.

Best Ford Joke of Stoson.

Here is the best Ford joke of the season. At a meeting in Detroit yesterday, directors of the company declared a cash dividend, the amount of which was not made public and then issued $48,000,000 worth of stock to the men who own the shares of the $2,000,000 original capitalization. Fifty million dollars worth of stock was placed in the treasury "to be used when needed." The stock, at this rate is paying 2,400 per cent or $24 for every dollar invested. The man who put $1,000 into the Ford company received more than $24,000 this year. That's certainly a good joke.

Our Country.

Suit on Past Due Paper.

Suit was brought this morning by Burford, Adams and Burford, attorneys for the Farmers and Merchants bank of Perry, against J. C. Brownwell and Emma V. Brownwell on a promissory note for $762.45 with interest at 10 per cent from 1913, which swells the amount involved to $856.30.
